Never Stand Still

Welcome from the President and Vice-Chancellor

Congratulations on your graduation, and welcome to this conferral of awards, our most important of ceremonies.

Gaining a degree is a great achievement. We are proud of the achievements of all the graduates who are here today, and recognise the special contribution each has made to the life of the University.

The University also recognises the indispensable role of families and friends who have helped to bring the new graduates to this day of triumph.

The University of New South Wales is considered by many to be Australia's premier university and we are very proud of the quality of our students. The University attracts the best that Australia can offer, and we also bring to our campus a wonderful and diverse cohort of students from throughout the region and the world.

Today you will be admitted into your degree, and become a member of the University. I encourage you to maintain a connection with the University through the various alumni activities and programs held around Australia and Internationally. This creates opportunities for you to play a part in building one of the great universities of the world.

On behalf of the University, I congratulate you and trust that you will find today's graduation ceremony a celebration of your achievement.

PROFESSOR FREDERICK G HILMER AO
President and Vice-Chancellor

The University of New South Wales

The University of New South Wales (UNSW) was created in 1949 and has been defined since its inception by strong industry links and a global outlook. One of Australia's leading research and teaching universities and foremost international universities, UNSW attracts outstanding scholars and students from around the world. The University's broad range and high quality of teaching programs gains strength, vitality and currency both from our research activities and from our international nature.

UNSW has a strong and engaged alumni community. The University's more than 235,000 alumni, many now scattered throughout the world in influential positions, are a testament to UNSW's leadership and excellence in teaching and research.

UNSW is proud to be a foundation member of the Group of Eight leading research universities in Australia and the prestigious Universitas 21 international consortium.

UNSW Canberra at the Australian Defence Force Academy

The University of New South Wales has forged strong links with the Australian Defence Force. We have a proud history of association going back to 1967. Located in the national capital, The Australian Defence Force Academy (ADFA) is a centre for higher education for the Australian Defence Force. Within the Academy, The University of New South Wales has charge for conducting academic programs and research.

The provision of high-quality undergraduate teaching programs to midshipmen and officer cadets of the Australian Defence Force continues to be the core business of UNSW Canberra.

UNSW Canberra offers undergraduate programs leading to UNSW bachelor degrees in Arts, Business, Engineering, Information Technology, Science, and Technology. UNSW Canberra is also regarded as a premium provider of postgraduate programs and we excel in the delivery of tailored programs in distance and intensive modes. We offer opportunities for graduate study and research leading to higher degrees, doctorates, masters, diplomas and certificates.

We aim to be recognised nationally and internationally as a location of outstanding university learning and teaching in a military context. UNSW acknowledges the privilege of providing educational services to such a highly motivated group of professionals.

Australian National Anthem

Advance Australia Fair

Australians all let us rejoice,
For we are young and free;
We've golden soil and wealth for toil,
Our home is girt by sea;
Our land abounds in nature's gifts
Of beauty rich and rare;
In history's page, let every stage
Advance Australia Fair.
In joyful strains then let us sing
Advance Australia Fair.

The Music - Band, Pipes and Drums of the Australian Defence Force Academy

BANDMASTER: Warrant Officer Class One Paul Davies

When the Australian Defence Force Academy was in the latter stages of construction in 1985 the Commandant, RADM P.R. Sinclair AO, RAN recommended the establishment of the Academy's own volunteer band, which would be in accordance with the practices of military academies he had visited overseas. Once established, the band would provide the music for all the ceremonial activities and many of the functions held at the Academy. Consultation with the Directors of Music of the three services ensued and consequently, due to its larger size and broader experience base, the Australian Army Band Corps was tasked with providing a Warrant Officer Bandmaster.

The Band became functional with the arrival of the cadet population in January 1986, but at first consisted only of a Drum Corps incorporating four side drums and a bass drum. With the arrival of the Bandmaster in July of that year, a fully operational Military Band was soon established. The instruments used then, and chiefly still in use today, were donated by the professional bands of all three services.

The Band organisation now encompasses nine differing ensembles, tailored to cater for the variant tastes and needs of the Academy. Since inception, the Band's ranks have included bagpipes, making it the only military unit in Australia that combines Pipes and Band on a continuous basis.

The Band organisation of today continues to fulfil and expand the diverse ceremonial and musical requirements of the Academy, with no concessions being afforded for the extra time commitment necessary from its members. This enthusiasm, dedication and resulting excellence has seen the group earn itself the richly deserved reputation as a model for military academy bands worldwide.

The presentation today includes the concert band and bagpipers of the Academy.

The University of New South Wales Global Alumni Community

When you graduate you immediately become an Alumnus of the University of New South Wales.

The University has more than 235,000 alumni living in Australia and in 120 countries around the world. There are four international Chapters/Networks; two interstate Chapters; an active Pioneers Group; and the Alumni Associates, a group of friends of UNSW.

We trust your relationship with the University will continue in many ways, enhancing your personal and professional network and keeping you informed about and engaged with University achievements and developments. We are always interested in sharing alumni stories, both personal and professional, with the wider UNSW community. UNSW offers you the opportunity to stay in touch with UNSW Canberra at the Australian Defence Force Academy, the wider University of New South Wales community as well as your fellow alumni and to benefit from that connection.

Visit the UNSW Alumni Relations website www.alumni.unsw.edu.au to update your details and remain connected with our global alumni community. The University holds regular local, interstate and international events so make sure you frequently visit the website to stay across what events are happening close to you.

Arms of THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW SOUTH WALES

Granted by the College of Heralds, London 3 March 1952
In 1994 the University title was added to the Arms to create the University Symbol, shown here.

Heraldic Description of Arms

Argent on a Cross Gules a Lion passant guardant between four Mullets of eight points Or a Chief Sable charged with an open Book proper thereon
the word SCIENTIA in letters also Sable.

The lion and the four stars of the Southern Cross on the Cross of St George have reference to the State of New South Wales which brought the University into being; the open book with SCIENTIA across its page reminds us of its original purpose.
Beneath the shield is the motto "Manu et Mente", which is the motto of the Sydney Technical College, from which the university has developed. The motto is not an integral part of the Grant of Arms and could be changed at will; but it was the opinion of the University Council that the relationship with the parent institution should in some way be recorded.

The University Mace

The Mace is a symbol of the dignity and authority of the University. Originally it was a weapon capable of breaking through the strongest armour, and, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, was carried in battle by mediaeval bishops so as to conform to the canonical rule that forbade priests to shed blood. Later, maces began to have a ceremonial function, though they were still intended to provide protection, usually to the king's person, and were carried by sergeants-at-arms.

The University's Mace is of simple form, constructed of stainless steel and embellished with silver. The Head, of sixteen satin-finished stainless steel ribs, is surmounted with a silver waratah, the floral emblem of the State of New South Wales, and on its horizontal bar are mounted four silver shields, two engraved with the arms of the University and two with the arms of the State. The inner core has a scarlet velvet lining.

The shaft is of eumung, a New South Wales timber, dark in colour, and terminates in a stainless steel tail. The Mace was presented to the University on 6 December 1962 by the Broken Hill Proprietary Company Ltd.

The History and Significance of Academic Dress

The history of academic dress reaches far back into the early days of the oldest universities. A statute of 1321 required that all "Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors" of the University of Coimbra wear gowns.

It is still a vexed question whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. Gowns may have been counted necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by mediaeval scholars, and the hood currently in use is the remnant of a garment, also a device against the cold, which could be pulled up over the head and kept in position with the tail wound around the throat. The type of academic headgear most commonly worn by graduates today is the mortar-board cap, also called the trencher cap, which dates back to the seventeenth century. It is also the custom of many universities for Doctors to be allowed to wear a distinctive type of headgear, either a round velvet bonnet or a black velvet mortar-board, with the full dress gown.

As universities developed throughout the Commonwealth countries they mostly prescribed academic costume based on that established for the members of Oxford and Cambridge Universities, where the Chancellor and often other senior members wear a distinctive official gown and hat. Graduates are identified by the wearing of a gown and hood specially prescribed for each degree and undergraduate students wear a distinctive gown and hat.

Notwithstanding the importance of the Oxford and Cambridge tradition of the gown and cap, it is the wearing of a hood by the graduate to indicate his or her degree which is the principal feature of the academic costume code.

The tradition of wearing academic dress continues in universities around the world and it is customary, on ceremonial occasions such as the Conferring of Awards Ceremony today, that the distinctive official costume of each person concerned be worn.

University Medal

The University Medal is recognition by the University of outstanding academic achievement at the undergraduate level. The bronze medal carries on its face an engraving of the Arms of the University and on the reverse, within a wreath of laurels, is engraved the name of the recipient.

Abbreviations of Degrees and Diplomas from UNSW

The correct abbreviations of the awards conferred at today's ceremony are listed in the program. The abbreviation follows the name of the graduate and precedes the abbreviation of The University of New South Wales which is UNSW.
