BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Academic, film critic, and author Albert Moran was born in Dublin in 1942. Moran has published several works on the film and publishing industries in Australia, including Inside Publishing : The Environments of the Publishing House(1990). He has been a professor in screen studies in the School of Humanities at Griffith University, and his works have been used in units of study at that university as well as several others. He is credited with helping pioneer the critical analysis of Australian film and television history, and established the field of global television format studies

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The papers of Albert Moran contain research materials on the Australian and international publishing/book industry related to his published works on the subject. These materials comprise book chapters, articles in newspapers, magazines and journals, privately or university commissioned reports or studies, and excerpts from various Commissions of Inquiry into the industry. Audiovisual material includes interviews with publishers, literary editors and writers recorded on audiocassettes

ARRANGEMENT

The boxes contain briefly annotated copies of journal articles, newspaper and magazine articles, monographs and book chapters. This collection also consists of newspaper articles (Australian and overseas) from the 1980s with some annotation or creator's markings on them. Correspondence is minimal and where it does exist it has been put at the front of the relevant folder. Many folders contain materials that are not found elsewhere and these consist principally of photocopied sections of Commissions of Inquiry into the publishing industry, local government reports into libraries, publishers, and books, publishing, library and book statistics, book or publishing industry-related economic policy papers, and privately and university commissioned reports or papers. Moran's own file numbering system (where it exists) is listed at the beginning of the folder description
